A.I. Training for ABS China customers

In late March, two ABS Australia AI technicians travelled to China to conduct 18 days of artificial insemination training for four ABS China customers. Matt Aikenhead, RMS Manager, and Neville Pulham, Warrnambool District Sales Manager, are well qualified as they have many years of AI experience and training between them.

The dairy groups involved were Modern, Sanyuan, Huishan and Yili. Together, the four groups represent over 250,000 cows milked at multiple sites across China.

The purpose of the trip was to assist these ABS China customers to develop world best practice standard operating procedures for their artificial insemination technicians.

Trainees of all ability levels were invited to attend the training programs. The training was conducted over three days with a number of trainees from each group, covering both theory and practical sessions, followed by assessment of trainee ability.

The ability of trainees ranged from just starting out to trained technicians with many years experience. For those trainees with an already high level of AI knowledge, training sessions also incorporated a theory module which highlighted the importance of the transition period and management options to optimize this period.

Irrespective of basic ability, all the technicians benefited from the uniform procedural approach which was taught to them by Matt and Neville. This is the same approach which is trained out to all ABS Australia technicians in Australia.

Facilities and farming practices in China very are not different to those seen throughout the world in high production housed dairying operations. For this reason, the managers of these farms find it very necessary to ensure that their employees have the necessary AI skills to achieve at a high level. ABS Australia is proud to be able to help accomplish this now, and into the future.
